BILLING CODE 3510-33-P

INTERNATIONAL TRADE COMMISSION

19 CFR Parts 201 and 210

[Docket No. MISC-040]

Rules of General Application and Adjudication and Enforcement

AGENCY: International Trade Commission.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The United States International Trade Commission ("Commission") amends its Rules of Practice and Procedure concerning rules of general application, adjudication, and enforcement. The amendments are necessary to make certain technical corrections, to clarify certain provisions, to harmonize different parts of the Commission's rules, and to address concerns that have arisen in Commission practice.

DATES: This regulation is effective May 20, 2013.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: James Worth, Office of the General Counsel, United States International Trade Commission, telephone 202-205-3065. Hearing-impaired individuals are advised that information on this matter can be obtained by contacting the Commission's TDD terminal at 202-205-1810. General information concerning the Commission may also be obtained by accessing its Internet server at <http://www.usitc.gov>.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

Section 335 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1335) authorizes the Commission to adopt such reasonable procedures, rules, and regulations as it deems necessary to carry out its functions and duties. This rulemaking seeks to update certain outdated provisions and improve other provisions of the Commission's existing Rules of Practice and Procedure. The Commission is amending its Part 201 rules of general application and Part 210 rules covering investigations under section 337 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1337) ("section 337") in order to increase the efficiency of its section 337 investigations. The Commission published a notice of proposed rulemaking (NPR) in the Federal Register at 77 FR 41120 (July 12, 2012), proposing to amend the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure to make certain changes to rules of general application, adjudication, and enforcement.

Although the Commission considers these rules to be procedural rules which are excepted from notice-and-comment under 5 U.S.C. 553(b)(3)(A), the Commission invited the public to comment on all the proposed rules amendments. The NPR requested public comment on the proposed rules within 60 days of publication of the NPR. Subsequently, in response to requests to file comments outside the 60 days, the Commission by letter granted extensions of up to two weeks to the ITC Trial Lawyers Association ("the ITC TLA"), the American Intellectual Property Law Association ("AIPLA"), and Innovation Alliance. The Commission received a total of 8 sets of comments, one each from the American Bar Association, Section of Intellectual Property Law ("the ABA"); AIPLA; the law firm of Adduci, Mastriani & Schaumberg LLP ("AMS"); Broadcom; Cisco; Innovation Alliance; the Intellectual Property Owners Association ("IPO"); and the ITC TLA.

The Commission carefully considered all comments received. The Commission's response is provided below in a section-by-section analysis. The Commission appreciates the time and effort the commentators devoted to provide comments on the NPR.

Regulatory Analysis of Proposed Amendments to the Commission's Rules

The Commission has determined that the final rules do not meet the criteria described in section 3(f) of Executive Order 12866 (58 FR 51735, Oct. 4, 1993) and thus do not constitute a significant regulatory action for purposes of the Executive Order.

The Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) is inapplicable to this rulemaking because it is not one for which a notice of proposed rulemaking was required under 5 U.S.C. 553(b) or any other statute. Although the Commission chose to publish a notice of proposed rulemaking, these regulations are "agency rules of procedure and practice," and thus are exempt from the notice requirement imposed by 5 U.S.C. 553(b).

These final rules do not contain federalism implications warranting the preparation of a federalism summary impact statement pursuant to Executive Order 13132 (64 FR 43255, Aug. 4, 1999).

No actions are necessary under the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (2 U.S.C. 1501 et seq.) because the final rules will not result in expenditure in the aggregate by state, local, and tribal governments, or by the private sector, of $100,000,000 or more in any one year, and will not significantly or uniquely affect small governments, as defined in 5 U.S.C. 601(5).

The final rules are not major rules as defined by section 804 of the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act of 1996 (5 U.S.C. 801 et seq.). Moreover, they are exempt from the reporting requirements of the Contract With America Advancement Act of 1996 (Pub. L. 104–121) because they concern rules of agency organization, procedure, or practice that do not substantially affect the rights or obligations of non-agency parties.

The amendments are not subject to section 3507(d) of the Paperwork Reduction Act (44 U.S.C. 3507(d)).

Overview of the Amendments to the Regulations

Many of the final rules set forth in this notice are identical to the correspondingly numbered proposed rules published on July 12, 2012. For many of the proposed rules, only positive comments were received or no comment was received. The Commission found no reason to change those proposed rules on its own before adopting them as final rules (with the exception of § 210.5, for which the Commission provides a further explanation below). Thus, the preamble to those unchanged final rules is as set forth in the section-by-section analysis of the proposed rules found at 77 FR 41120 (July 12, 2012).

The Commission received comments with forty suggestions for modifications. Those suggestions and the views of the Commission are summarized in the section-by-section analysis of this notice of final rulemaking. The commentary in the July 12, 2012, notice is considered part of the preamble to these final rules, to the extent that such commentary is not inconsistent with the discussion below. The final rules differ from the proposed rules for nine of the rules (for a total of 16 changes from the NOPR). The ways in which the final rules differ from the proposed rules are summarized here.

First, with regard to § 201.16, relating to service of process, the Commission has used the term “express delivery” instead of “overnight delivery” in certain instances, and added a definition for express delivery. Further, the Commission has eliminated unnecessary language from the provision for electronic service in paragraph (f).

Second, with regard to § 210.5, relating to public versions of documents containing confidential business information, the Commission has concluded that parties must upon request provide support in the record for any proposed redactions that parties may submit to an administrative law judge or the Commission for the preparation of the public version of a document consistent with Commission rules 201.6 and 210.4.

Third, with regard to § 210.8, relating to commencement of preinstitution proceedings, the Commission has allowed parties to submit the public version of public interest comments on the day following submission of the confidential version.

Fourth, with regard to § 210.12, relating to the complaint, the Commission has decided that the newly required statement of accused products in plain English in the complaint will not be included in the notice of investigation as originally proposed.

Fifth, with regard to §§ 210.16 and 210.17, relating to default and failures to act other than statutory forms of default, the Commission has clarified that both rules are affected by the rule change regarding default by notice. If the named respondent has not yet responded to the complaint and notice of investigation, then the default resulting from a notice of intent to default is under § 210.16. If the named respondent has responded to the complaint or notice of investigation, then the default resulting from a notice of intent to default is under § 210.17. The Commission has further clarified that a respondent’s filing of a notice of intent to default eliminates the need for an order to show cause why the respondent should not be found in default.

Sixth, with regard to § 210.21, relating to termination of investigations, the Commission has clarified the wording of consent order stipulations and what is required in consent orders; clarified that it is respondents who sign consent order stipulations; codified the existing practice that the administrative law judge may, in the exercise of discretion, limit service of settlement agreements to settling parties and the Commission investigative attorney for good cause shown; retained the language that settling parties must aver that there are no other agreements between parties; made a conforming change to require that with terminations under paragraph (a)(1) for withdrawal of the complaint, as with other paragraphs of § 210.21, the parties must submit any settlement agreements; and combined the prohibition on importation in proposed paragraphs (c)(4)(iii) and (c)(4)(iv).

Seventh, with regard to § 210.28, relating to depositions, the Commission has clarified that each notice for corporate designations would only count as one deposition; clarified that related respondents are treated as one entity for purposes of the rule; and eliminated the need to respond to a notice of deposition other than to make objections.

Eighth, with regard to § 210.29, relating to interrogatories, the Commission has clarified that related respondents are treated as one entity for purposes of the rule.

Ninth, with regard to § 210.50, relating to Commission action, public interest, and bonding by respondents, the Commission has provided that parties may file the public version of public interest submissions on the day following submission of the confidential version.

The following section-by-section analysis includes a comprehensive discussion of all rules for which commentators suggested modifications.

Section-by-Section Analysis

19 CFR Part 201

Subpart B—Initiation and Conduct of Investigations

Section 201.16 Service of Process and Other Documents

The NOPR proposed to amend § 201.16 by adding a paragraph (a)(3) to provide that the Commission may use overnight service to effectuate service. The ABA suggests changing the wording from “leaving a copy at the office of such attorney” to “by serving the attorney by overnight delivery” or “by express delivery.” The Commission adopts the suggested change so that it is clear that the entire paragraph is discussing service by overnight delivery.

The NOPR proposed to further amend § 201.16 by adding a paragraph (a)(4) to provide that service by overnight delivery is complete upon submitting the document to the overnight delivery service or depositing it in the appropriate container for pick-up. The ABA suggests qualifying this by adding “such that delivery can be accomplished by the next business day.” The Commission declines to adopt this suggestion. The Commission notes that if a document being served is submitted for delivery after the overnight delivery service’s last pick up of the day, it is the Commission’s practice to consider the document as being served the following day. As this Commission practice addresses the problem identified by the ABA, the Commission does not adopt the suggestion.

The NOPR proposed to revise § 201.16(e) by adding five calendar days to the response time when overnight delivery is to a foreign country. The ITC TLA suggests using the term “express delivery” instead of “overnight delivery” and defining “express delivery” to be domestic overnight delivery service or the foreign equivalent thereof. Similarly, the ITC TLA suggests that the Commission use the term “express delivery” in its certificates of service rather than “international” service. The Commission adopts these changes in recognition that so-called “overnight delivery” is not overnight when it is international. In this connection, the Commission substitutes a definition of “express delivery” for “overnight service” in § 201.16(e), explaining that “express delivery” refers to overnight delivery when the delivery is to a location in the United States, and to the equivalent express service when the delivery is to a foreign location.

The NOPR next proposed to amend § 201.16 by revising paragraph (f) to provide that no additional time after service of the document is added for response when electronic service is used. The ABA suggests striking the words “after the service of the document” from the proposed rule because the words are unnecessary. The Commission agrees and adopts the suggestion.

Part 210

Subpart A—Rules of General Applicability

Section 210.4 Written Submissions; Representations; Sanctions

The ITC TLA suggests that the Commission move towards eliminating the requirement for duplicate service of paper copies. The Commission has determined that this is beyond the scope of the proposed rule, but agrees that this may be a topic for a future rulemaking.

Section 210.5 Confidential Business Information

The NOPR proposed to amend § 210.5 to provide that, absent good cause for an extension of time, the Commission and ALJs would issue any public versions of confidential documents (e.g., opinions and orders) within 30 days of the issuance of the confidential version. Common practice is for the Commission or the ALJ to solicit proposed redactions from the parties in order to facilitate the preparation of the public version of the document. After deliberation as to whether the proposed rule will allow sufficient time for the preparation of public versions, and in order not to place an undue burden on the ALJs, the final rule explains that, upon request by the Commission (or the presiding ALJ, if the document was issued by an ALJ), parties must provide support pursuant to §§ 201.6 and 210.4 for any proposed redactions that parties may submit to the Commission or an ALJ for the preparation of the public version of a document. The Commission notes that ALJs are free to adjust their ground rules for the provision of proposed redactions, and that parties are expected to comply with the ground rules of the presiding ALJ.

Subpart B—Commencement of Preinstitution Proceedings and Investigations

Section 210.8 Commencement of Preinstitution Proceedings

The NOPR proposed to amend § 210.8 to provide that entities filing submissions on public interest issues raised by the complaint file a public version of the submission along with the confidential version. AIPLA and the ITC TLA suggest that the rules allow entities to file the public version on the following business day. AIPLA argues that requiring a public version on the same day would place additional strain on the already tight timeline of Section 337 investigations. ITC TLA states that this would be consistent with the practice in the Commission’s Title VII investigations under Rule 207.3(c).

The Commission adopts the suggested change. In our view, allowing parties to submit a public version the following business day is reasonable, and is consistent with Commission rule 207.3(c).

Subpart C—Pleadings

Section 210.12 The Complaint

The NOPR proposed to amend § 210.12 to revise paragraphs (a)(6)(i) and (ii) to require a detailed statement in the complaint as to whether a domestic industry exists or is in the process of being established (and if the latter, facts showing complainant is actively engaged in steps leading to the exploitation of its intellectual property rights, and that there is a significant likelihood that an industry will be established in the future). The ABA suggests an alternate wording for paragraph (a)(6)(ii), which deals with allegations of violations of section 337(a)(1)(A)(i) and (ii). Specifically, the ABA suggests that the Commission require a detailed description of the “domestic industry affected.” The Commission declines to adopt the suggested change. The ABA’s suggested language “domestic industry affected” is not a sufficient description of the statutory text and the Commission requires specific factual pleading in the cases of domestic industries that exist and also those that are in the process of being established. Moreover, the language of section 337(a)(1)(A)(i) and (ii) speaks in terms of an “industry in the United States” and the “establishment of such an industry.”

The NOPR also proposed to amend § 210.12 by adding a paragraph (a)(12) which requires the complaint to include a statement in plain English of the types of products that are accused. In addition, the NOPR proposed that the notice of investigation published in the Federal Register would include this plain English statement. The ABA suggests that the Commission make the further provision that the scope of the investigation will be restricted to those products enumerated in the Federal Register notice.

The final rule retains the requirement that the plain English statement must be set forth in the complaint. However, to avoid potential ambiguities regarding the scope of an investigation, the statement in question will not be included in the notice of investigation as originally proposed. The scope of the investigation is defined by the notice of investigation, not by the complaint. The NOPR did not provide adequate notice for public comment purposes that the inclusion of the statement in the notice of investigation would limit the scope of the investigation. As such, the statement will not be listed in the notice of investigation. The Commission proposed that the complaint describe accused products in plain terms for public notice and informational purposes. Therefore, the ABA’s suggestion to use this statement to limit the scope of the notice of investigation is beyond the scope of the NOPR and of this rulemaking. The Commission may consider the ABA’s suggestion for a future rulemaking.

Section 210.14 Amendments to Pleadings and Notice; Supplemental Submissions; Counterclaims; Respondent Submissions on the Public Interest (Consolidation of Investigations)

The NOPR proposed to amend § 210.14, inter alia, to allow the administrative law judges to consolidate investigations. The ITC TLA opposes the proposed rule to the extent that the same limits on discovery under proposed rule 210.28(a) would apply to consolidated investigations. The Commission will consider the comment in the context of § 210.28. As such, the final rule is unchanged from the proposed rule.

Subpart D—Motions

Section 210.16 Default and Section 210.17 Failures To Act Other Than the Statutory Forms of Default

The NOPR proposed to amend § 210.17 to provide that a respondent may file a notice of intent to default.

The ITC TLA supports the proposed rule.

The ABA points out that the consequence of default is different depending on whether the respondent has responded to the complaint and notice of investigation. Section 210.16 is directed to statutory default under Section 337(g) (which provides for default where “the person fails to respond to the complaint and notice or otherwise fails to appear to answer the complaint and notice,” 19 U.S.C. 1337(g)(1)(C)), whereas § 210.17 is directed to failures to act other than the statutory forms of default. The ABA is correct that the proposed rule change regarding default by notice impacts both § 210.16 and § 210.17. The Commission adopts the ABA’s suggestion to amend both §§ 210.16 and 210.17 to provide that if the named respondent has not answered the complaint and notice of investigation (thus satisfying Section 337(g)(1)(C)), then the default by notice may be treated as if under § 210.16, but otherwise the default by notice shall be treated in the same manner as any failure to act under § 210.17.

The ABA argues that it is unclear how a named respondent who had not yet responded to the complaint would be treated, and that it is unclear whether the two-step show cause procedure of Commission rule 210.16(b) would be required after the filing of a notice of intent to default. The ABA suggests that the rule indicate that, after the filing of a notice of intent to default, the ALJ shall issue an ID finding such a respondent in default, and that such a default shall be treated “as if under” Commission rule 210.16. The Commission adopts the suggested change and amends section 210.16 to provide that the ALJ shall issue an ID finding such a respondent (i.e., a named respondent who has not yet responded to the complaint and notice of investigation when that respondent files a notice of intent to default) in default, thus eliminating the need for the two-step show cause procedure of Commission rule 210.16(b) with the filing of a notice of intent to default. Likewise, a notice of intent to default under Commission rule 210.17 (i.e., by a respondent who has answered the complaint or notice of investigation) will eliminate the need for the two-step show cause procedure.

Section 210.21 Termination of Investigations

The NOPR proposed to amend § 210.21 to require that parties seeking to terminate an investigation by settlement agreement or consent order provide a copy of any agreements between the parties. The ITC TLA supports the proposed rule. AIPLA suggests that the Commission limit access to all documents to only the Commission, stating that it would not be in the interest of the settling parties for non-settling respondents, who would not otherwise have access to the documents, to have access. The Commission declines to accept the proposed change. The Commission believes that the standard procedure generally requires service on all parties under the protective order to encourage transparency. Nevertheless, the Commission concurs that the administrative law judge may, in the exercise of the administrative law judge’s discretion, limit service of a settlement agreement to the settling parties and the Commission investigative attorney on motion for good cause shown.

Upon consideration of the proposed rule, the Commission clarifies the wording of the rule as to what a consent order requires, i.e., a statement of the identity of complainant, the respondent, and the subject articles, and a statement of any allegation in the complaint that the respondents sell for importation, import, or sell after importation the subject articles in violation of section 337.

Further, upon consideration of the proposed rule, the Commission changes § 210.21(c)(4)(ii) to refer to respondents who submit a consent order stipulation rather than to “parties.” It is only necessary for a respondent to sign a consent order stipulation, even if there is a joint motion with the complainant for termination based on a consent order.

There are four other changes from the proposed rule. The final rule retains the language of the current paragraph (b) that the settling parties must aver that there are no other agreements between the parties. Second, the final rule requires that parties seeking to terminate the investigation under paragraph (a)(1) on the basis of withdrawal of the complaint or good cause must provide any settlement agreements. The proposed rule provided that parties seeking to terminate the investigation by consent order under paragraph (c), as with settlement agreements under paragraph (b), must provide any settlement agreements between the parties. As all other types of termination under section 210.21 would require parties to submit any agreements for review in light of relevant public interest considerations, the final rule recognizes that paragraph (a)(1) should not be a gap or loophole. Thus § 210.21(a)(1) will require submission of any settlement agreements as well. Third, the final rule changes the wording of § 210.21(c)(3) to clarify the type of statements required in a consent order stipulation. Fourth, the final rule changes § 210.21(c)(4) to combine the prohibition on importation of proposed paragraph (iii) and the exceptions for consent of proposed paragraph (iv), and to renumber the remaining paragraphs in the final rule accordingly.

Subpart E—Discovery and Compulsory Process

Section 210.28(a) Depositions (Limit on the Number of Depositions)

The NOPR proposed to amend § 210.28 to limit the number of depositions that parties could take absent stipulation or order for good cause shown, such that complainants would be limited to no more than 5 fact depositions per respondent and no more than 20 total, whichever is greater, respondents as a group would be limited to no more than 20 fact depositions, and if the investigative attorney is a party, he or she could take 10 fact depositions and participate in all depositions taken by any party in the investigation. This proposed rule seeks to prevent an undue burden on parties, consistent with Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 30(a). The Commission notes that ALJs have inherent authority to limit discovery, e.g., depositions, interrogatories, witness statements, and exhibits, in their ground rules, subject only to due process constraints.

Cisco argues that the Federal Circuit bench and bar has favorably looked upon Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 30(a)(2)(A)(i), which limits each side to taking ten depositions total, and that a similar rule should apply to the Commission. Cisco suggests that the proposed rule should be modified to limit the total number of fact depositions that may be taken of any one party or third party and their affiliates to ten, absent a stipulation or order on written motion to the ALJ for good cause shown. AIPLA cautions against applying the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure to Section 337 investigations and suggests keeping the current practice, whereby the ALJs limit discovery through their ground rules. AIPLA also suggests that the rule provide specifically for the case of consolidated investigations.

IPO argues that there is an imbalance, stating that if there are 21 respondents then complainants could take 105 depositions, while the respondents, who may be unrelated to each other, would be limited to 20 depositions. IPO further argues that there may be more than 20 named inventors for respondents to depose. IPO next states that it is unclear whether it would count as more than one deposition if a party designates more than one person to testify on its behalf. IPO suggests that the Commission enumerate what factors would constitute good cause to increase the number of depositions, and that the Commission clarify whether any deposition in which a person is designated to testify on one or more topics counts as a separate deposition.

The ABA argues that it is unclear whether the maximum for complainants is 20 depositions total or 5 depositions per respondent, that related respondents should be treated as a group, and that it is unclear whether 30(b)(6) notices are counted as one deposition. The ABA suggests that each 30(b)(6) notice be treated as one deposition but that parties be limited to two Rule 30(b)(6) notices of each other party, that the ITC adopt the 30(b)(6) language of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, and that each person deposed be subject to a seven hour, one-day limitation present in the Federal Rules absent permission of the ALJ for additional time.

The ITC TLA agrees with the principle of limiting the number of depositions, but suggests that the administrative law judge set limits for depositions in each investigation after the parties confer and each party submits a proposed list of depositions. The ITC TLA argues that the number of necessary depositions will vary from investigation to investigation based on the number of asserted patents, the number of named inventors on the patents, the quantity of prior art that needs to be authenticated, and whether the Commission has delegated the taking of evidence on the public interest to the administrative law judge. Additionally, the ITC TLA argues that the proposed rule would have the unintended consequence of limiting discovery depending on the number of corporate representatives designated to respond to a Rule 30(b)(6) notice. AMS suggests that no limitation should be placed on the number of depositions, but should the Commission decide to adopt the proposed rule, AMS suggests that Rule 30(b)(6) depositions, inventor depositions, and third party depositions be excluded from the proposed limitation.

The rule is unchanged from the proposed rule, with the clarifications that (a) each notice for corporate designations (akin to Rule 30(b)(6) practice under the Federal Rules) would include all corporate representatives designated to respond, and would only count as one deposition for purpose of the rule, and (b) that related respondents would be treated as one entity for purpose of the rule. With regard to the ABA's comment that the rule appears ambiguous with regard to the maximum number of fact depositions permitted for the complainants, the Commission clarifies that the rule provides that the complainants may take a maximum of 20 fact depositions or five fact depositions per respondent, whichever is greater. The Commission does not believe that a special rule is required for consolidated investigations although consolidation of investigations may constitute good cause for an increase in the number of depositions at the discretion of the administrative law judge. While the Commission agrees with the ITC TLA that the number of depositions required may vary from investigation to investigation, the proposed rule allows the administrative law judge to increase the number of allotted depositions for good cause shown. However, the purpose of the rule is to reduce the burdens and costs of discovery by imposing reasonable limits on discovery, and in doing so to avoid excessive motions practice before the ALJs. Adopting the ITC TLA's suggestion that the ALJ set limits in each investigation may not accomplish the purpose of the rule. Thus, the rule sets a reasonable limit on discovery while allowing the ALJs to exercise discretion to modify the limit for good cause shown.

As to IPO's argument that the number of depositions would be excessive if there are many respondents, the Commission notes that if there are different respondents, it may be necessary to take discovery from each respondent (or group of related respondents) to the investigation.

Section 210.28(c) Depositions (Response and Objections to Notice of Deposition)

The NOPR proposed to amend § 210.28 to provide that parties may respond and object to a notice of deposition within ten days of service of the notice of deposition. The ITC TLA suggests that the rule provide that parties may object to a notice within 10 days but suggests eliminating the proposed provision for a response to the notice. The ITC TLA argues that the recipient of the notice of deposition may not be able to identify the corporate designees within 10 days. The Commission adopts the suggestion so that the recipient must make any objections within 10 days, and state the reasons therefor, but the recipient need not identify the corporate designees within this time frame because 10 days may not be enough time to identify the corporate designees.

Section 210.29 Interrogatories (Limit on the Number of Interrogatories)

The NOPR proposed to amend § 210.29 to limit the number of interrogatories that any party may serve on any other party to 175. Cisco agrees with the effort of the rules to limit the number of interrogatories but suggests that the Commission limit the number of interrogatories that may be served on a party to forty. Cisco points to Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 33(a)(i), which limits each party to serving twenty-five interrogatories on any other party absent stipulation or leave of court. Cisco cites several recent Section 337 investigations in which the respondents filed thousands of pages in response to interrogatories. Cisco also suggests that related parties (i.e., parties and their affiliates) be grouped together for purposes of the rule. AIPLA cautions against applying the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure to Section 337 investigations and suggests keeping the current practice, whereby the ALJs limit discovery through their ground rules. AIPLA also suggests that the rule provide specifically for the case of consolidated investigations. IPO suggests a presumptive limit of 50 to 100 interrogatories, which it argues would be higher than the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and sufficient to allow adequate discovery while helping to limit the cost of responding to written discovery. The ITC TLA and AMS support the proposed rule. The ITC TLA points out that the proposed rule is consistent with the ground rules of the administrative law judges.

The final rule is unchanged from the proposed rule with the clarification that related respondents are treated as one entity for purposes of the rule. The proposed rule is consistent with the ALJ ground rules and allows a change to the number of allowed interrogatories for good cause. The default number of 175 interrogatories (or subparts) has worked well in current practice, allowing parties sufficient discovery while minimizing motions practice. The Commission does not believe that a special rule is required for consolidated investigations, although consolidation of investigations may constitute good cause for an increase in the number of interrogatories at the discretion of the administrative law judge.

Section 210.31 Requests for Admissions

Cisco suggests that the Commission amend § 210.31 to limit each party to 40 requests for admission (or subparts thereof) from any other party (including affiliates thereof).

This proposal is beyond the scope of the Commission's Notice of Proposed Rulemaking. The Commission may consider this topic for a future rulemaking.

Section 210.32 Subpoenas

Broadcom and Cisco suggest that the Commission amend § 210.32 to allocate the burden to the party that is seeking discovery from a third party to move to compel rather than requiring a third party to move to quash a subpoena.

This proposal is beyond the scope of the Commission's Notice of Proposed Rulemaking. The Commission may consider this topic for a future rulemaking.

Subpart G—Determinations and Action Taken

Section 210.43 Petitions for Review [and the Summary Thereof in Appendix A]

The NOPR proposed to amend § 210.43 to make a technical correction to change the time for a response to a petition of a summary determination that would terminate the investigation from 10 business days to 10 calendar days. AIPLA opposes this change, stating that shortening the time period for a response would present difficulties for attorneys. The ITC TLA also opposes the change, stating that it may be prejudicial on foreign parties. This was intended to be a technical correction, as the summary table in Appendix A to the rules already provides for 10 calendar days. The rule is unchanged from the proposed rule because it merely makes the technical correction. The rule provides only two fewer days for a petition for review of a summary determination that would terminate the investigation than are provided for a petition for review of a final ID and there are typically fewer issues in a summary determination ID than in a final ID.

The NOPR further proposed to provide an express statement prohibiting parties from evading the page limits for petitions and responses by incorporating other pleadings by reference. AIPLA argues that it is “against the interest of the investigation” to limit pages because arguments not contained in the brief are waived. The ITC TLA points out that parties are required to state their arguments in detail. AIPLA and the ITC TLA suggest that either there should be no page limits or the Commission should allow the parties to petition the Commission for additional pages.

The proposed rule did not revisit the issue of page limits which were provided in the 2008 rulemaking, 73 FR 38319, 38325 (July 7, 2008). The proposed rule merely explained that parties cannot evade these page limits through incorporation of other pleadings by reference. The Commission believes that the existing page limits are adequate for the parties to avoid waiver of arguments not raised in the briefs and views incorporation by reference to be inconsistent with the existing rule.

Section 210.50 Commission Action, Public Interest, and Bonding by Respondents

The NOPR proposed to amend § 210.50 to provide that entities filing submissions on public interest issues raised by the ID file a public version of the submission with the confidential version. AMS points out that this shortens the time for filing a public version from 10 calendar days, which is the default time period for filing public versions provided by Commission rule 210.4(f)(7)(ii)(A)(3). AMS submits that the NOPR does not provide a reason for the requirement of concurrent filing and argues that this would create an undue burden on the party filing. AIPLA and the ITC TLA make a similar argument. The Commission adopts the AIPLA's suggestion to allow parties to file the public version on the next business day following submission of the confidential version. Allowing parties to submit a public version the following day is reasonable, and is consistent with Commission rule 207.3(c).

The ABA further suggests amending Commission rule 210.50(a)(4) to allow 45 days for submission of public interest submissions because, under the proposed Commission rule 210.5, the public version of the initial determination and the recommended determination on remedy would have issued 30 days after the confidential version, and submissions relating to the public interest would be due on the same day. This proposal is beyond the scope of the Commission's Notice of Proposed Rulemaking, but may be revisited in a future rulemaking. The Commission notes that the Commission practice is to publish a notice in the Federal Register following the issuance of the recommended determination, soliciting public interest submissions. This notice summarizes the recommended determination in order to provide notice to the public.

Subpart I—Enforcement Procedures and Advisory Opinions

Section 210.75(b) (Formal Enforcement Proceedings) and 210.76 (Modification Proceedings)

The NOPR proposed to amend § 210.75(b) to shorten the period for determining whether to review an enforcement ID in a formal enforcement proceeding from 90 days to 45 days. The NOPR further proposed to amend § 210.75(b) to provide 10 (calendar) days for petitions and to provide 5 business days for responses thereto. Similarly, the NOPR proposed to amend § 210.76 to provide 10 (calendar) days for comments and 5 business days for responses thereto.

The ITC TLA supports expediting final resolution of an enforcement proceeding but suggests 60 days for the period for determining whether to review the ID, stating its concern that 45 days may not be adequate for sufficient consideration by the Commission if the ITC TLA's suggestion for briefing were accepted. Specifically, the ITC TLA proposes 10 business days for petitions for review, as for current rule 210.43. The Commission declines the ITC TLA's suggestion that the Commission set the deadline for determining whether to review an enforcement ID to be 60 days from service of the enforcement ID. There is a statutory mandate to conclude an investigation and make a determination on violation at the earliest practicable time, 19 U.S.C. 1337(b). The Commission believes that, in most enforcement proceedings, 45 days is a sufficient period for its decision on whether to review the enforcement ID, and notes that this time period is comparable to that for determining whether to review a summary determination that would terminate an investigation. These two types of decisions are comparable in terms of the tasks the Commission needs to accomplish. The Commission has found the 45 day limit to be workable in the context of summary determinations that would terminate an investigation, and therefore concludes that the same time limit should be applicable for enforcement proceedings.

(ii) If the respondent fails to make the necessary showing pursuant to paragraph (b)(1)(i) of this section, the administrative law judge shall issue an initial determination finding the respondent in default. An administrative law judge's decision denying a motion for a finding of default under paragraph (a)(1) of this section shall be in the form of an order.

* * * * *

(3) If a proposed respondent has not filed a response to the complaint and notice of investigation pursuant to § 210.13 or § 210.59(c) of this chapter, the proposed respondent may file a notice of intent to default under this section. The filing of a notice of intent to default does not require the administrative law judge to issue the show-cause order of paragraph (b)(1) of this section. The administrative law judge shall issue an initial determination finding the proposed respondent in default upon the filing of a notice of intent to default. Such default will be treated in the same manner as any default under this section.

* * * * *

(c) * * *

- (1) Types of relief available. * * *
(2) General exclusion orders. * * *

The Commission may issue a general exclusion order pursuant to section 337(g)(2) of the Tariff Act of 1930, regardless of the source or importer of the articles concerned, provided that a violation of section 337 of the Tariff Act of 1930 is established by substantial, reliable, and probative evidence and that the other requirements of 19 U.S.C. 1337(d)(2) are satisfied, and only after considering the aforementioned public interest factors and the requirements of § 210.50(c).

(f) Failure to respond to a petition for review of an initial determination, a petition for reconsideration of an initial determination, or an application for interlocutory review of an administrative law judge's order; and

* * * * *

(h) Default by notice. If a respondent has filed a response to the complaint or notice of investigation under § 210.13 of this chapter, the respondent may still file a notice of intent to default with the presiding administrative law judge at any time before the filing of the final initial determination. The administrative law judge shall issue an initial determination finding the respondent in default upon the filing of a notice of intent to default. Such default will be treated in the same manner as any other failure to act under this section. The filing of a notice of intent to default does not require the administrative law judge to issue an order to show cause as to why the respondent should not be found in default.

* * * * *

■ 16. Amend § 210.21 by:

- a. Revising the second sentence of paragraph (a)(1);

(C) An express waiver of all rights to seek judicial review or otherwise challenge or contest the validity of the consent order;

(D) A statement that the signatories to the consent order stipulation will cooperate with and will not seek to impede by litigation or other means the Commission's efforts to gather information under subpart I of this part;

(E) A statement that the enforcement, modification, and revocation of the consent order will be carried out pursuant to subpart I of this part, incorporating by reference the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure;

(F) A statement that the signing thereof is for settlement purposes only and does not constitute admission by any respondent that an unfair act has been committed, if applicable; and

(G) A statement that the consent order shall have the same force and effect and may be enforced, modified, or revoked in the same manner as is provided in section 337 of the Tariff Act of 1930 and this part for other Commission actions, and the Commission may require periodic compliance reports pursuant to subpart I of this part to be submitted by the person entering into the consent order stipulation.

(iv) A statement, if applicable, regarding the disposition of existing U.S. inventories of the subject articles.

(v) A statement, if applicable, whether the respondent would be ordered to cease and desist from importing and distributing articles covered by the asserted patent claims, copyright, trademark, mask work, boat hull design, or unfair trade practice;

(vi) A statement that respondent shall be precluded from seeking judicial review or otherwise challenging or contesting the validity of the Consent Order;

(vii) A statement that respondent shall cooperate with and shall not seek to impede by litigation or other means the Commission's efforts to gather information under subpart I of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, 19 CFR part 210;

(ix) A statement that when the patent, copyright, trademark, mask work, boat hull design, or unfair trade practice expires the Consent Order shall become null and void as to such;

(x) A statement that if any claim of the patent, copyright, trademark, mask work, boat hull design, or other unfair trade practice is held invalid or unenforceable by a court or agency of competent jurisdiction or as to any articles that has been found or adjudicated not to infringe the asserted right in a final decision, no longer subject to appeal, this Consent Order shall become null and void as to such invalid or unenforceable claim; and

(xi) A statement that the investigation is hereby terminated with respect to the respondent; provided, however, that enforcement, modification, or revocation of the Consent Order shall be carried out pursuant to Subpart I of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure, 19 CFR part 210.
