Enclosed are the United States International Trade Commission's questionnaires for the final phase of its antidumping and countervailing duty investigations into drill pipe and drill collars from China. The Commission completed its preliminary phase investigations in March 2010 and preliminary duties were placed on drill pipe and drill collars from China thereafter. The result of this final phase of these investigations will determine whether those duties remain in place or are withdrawn. The Commission is scheduled to make a final determination in February 2011.

Please note that even if your firm submitted a questionnaire response in the Commission's preliminary phase investigations (issued in January 2010), your firm is still required to submit a questionnaire response in these final phase investigations.

In these investigations, there are 3 separate questionnaires, (1) a U.S. producer's questionnaire, (2) a U.S. importer's questionnaire, and (3) a U.S. purchaser's questionnaire. Your firm may be required to submit one or more of these questionnaires. Refer to the chart below to determine which questionnaire(s) your firm must submit. Please read the ENTIRE table below.

For ALL the following activities that apply to your firm, submit the corresponding questionnaire(s):	U.S. Producers' Questionnaire	U.S. Importers' Questionnaire	U.S. Purchasers' Questionnaire
